Jesus

My brothers and sisters, how I love you. How eager I am that you use the graces available to you. When a person understands this mission and begins to ask for graces for others, Heaven is joyful. In the same way, those on Earth for whom you pray begin to benefit and to change. Graces surround them. Their soul becomes alert because there is hope. Dear ones, help me. I want every soul to return to me. I am waiting for each person to become open to me so that my graces can flood their soul. Many of you have seen this and you understand. For those of you who have not seen this happen, please ask me for graces for a person who seems far from me. Continue asking. Ask me for graces for strangers, too. I will come to them in a special way. I will observe them closely, as only I can through my personal knowledge of them, and I will find the perfect moment. While I wait for this moment, I will be allowing them to benefit from your prayers and wishes by sending moments of grace and people of grace into their lives. Think, my friends. Did I not do this for you at some time in your life? Did I not pursue you if you were far away? If you were never far away, perhaps I encouraged you when you felt abandoned or afraid. I have graces for each person in darkness. Please work for me now and you will see people returning. All is well, dear friends. You are children of Heaven and as children of Heaven, you have nothing to fear. There is only good possible for you. The Earth is a temporary residence. Your home is in Heaven. So when you come here, you will have come home. Be joyful servants of your Returning King and you will see great changes in your world.
