Introduction

Dear Reader,

I am a wife, mother of six, and a Secular Franciscan.

At the age of twenty, I was divorced for serious reasons and with pastoral support in this decision. In my mid-twenties I was a single parent, working and bringing up a daughter. As a daily Mass communicant, I saw my faith as sustaining and had begun a journey with Jesus, through my Catholic faith and the Secular Franciscan Order.

At the age of twenty-eight, I met a wonderful man. My first marriage had been annulled and we married and were blessed with an additional five children. Spiritually speaking, I had many experiences that included what I now know to be interior locutions. These moments were beautiful and the words still stand out firmly in my heart. I took it as a matter of course that Jesus had to work hard to sustain me as He had given me a lot to handle. In looking back, I see that He was preparing me to do his work.

During this time and after, I also began to experience locutions from the Blessed Mother, in addition to Jesus. Their voices are not hard to distinguish. I do not hear them in an auditory way, but in my soul. By this time I knew that something remarkable was occurring and Jesus told me that he had special work for me, over and above my primary vocation as wife and mother. He asked me to write the messages down and that he would arrange to have them published and disseminated.

All has happened as he said and I pray that we can all serve him according to his loving directions.

Yours sincerely, Anne, apostle of the Returning King

The Allegiance Prayer

Dear God in Heaven, I pledge my allegiance to you. I give you my life, my work and my heart. In turn, give me the grace of obeying your every direction to the fullest possible extent. Amen.

The Vocation Prayer

Oh Mary, mother of Jesus and Queen of the Church, I ask you to bless me with fidelity to my vocation. Assist me in seeing that my service, however humble and hidden, is important to the universal Church. Strengthen me in times of trial and watch over my family and loved ones. Help me, beloved Mother, to remain faithful to Jesus Christ, your Son, the Returning King. Amen.

PART ONE:
MARY,
AN UNKNOWN SAINT,
SPEAKS TO MOTHERS

June 7, 2004
Mary (an unknown saint)
Speaks to Mothers

With gracious permission from the Lord Jesus Christ, I speak today to all mothers. You are living in a time when mothers are no longer honored for the important role they play in the protection and development of society. Mothers, you are the cornerstone of the home. The home is the place where a person's soul begins his or her critical formation. The enemy labors relentlessly to persuade mothers that they should leave the home and abandon the development of their children to others. Mothers, another person cannot love your child the way you love your child. Another person, even though he or she may be a good person, is not intimately interested in the emotional and spiritual development of your child. Many of you must work to support your family. Jesus understands that and will help you, as will I. But you must scrutinize your situation fearlessly and be certain you are leaving your children so you can earn the money to procure necessities. It will not be acceptable to say you left the rearing of your children to others so you could earn money that was not needed. I tell you this because our Lord wishes families to be together. Jesus, who knows exactly what each soul requires for proper formation, is asking that mothers remain home with their children whenever possible. I am unknown in your world, yet I am a beloved saint here in Heaven. On Earth, I cared for my children in my home. There were many occasions when I found the work tedious. I can assure you that I often longed to be working outside of my home because I had always thought I would work professionally. The days may seem tedious, dear mothers, but when stitched together they make the most beautiful tapestry illustrating the growth of a little soul. I earned a very high place in Heaven simply by caring for my husband and children. If you have more than one child, you are teaching Christ-like behavior all day long as you show the children how to behave toward each other. If this beautiful formation occurs in the home, you will send your children out, knowing you have helped the Kingdom to release Christ-followers into the troubled world. You may not understand the gravity of your role, but if you meditate on it you will see that if all mothers were to abandon their responsibilities, we would see even greater darkness. Jesus will not allow this, of course.

I want to speak to those mothers who have lost children through sickness or tragedy. Dearest mother, whose heart is broken, you will see your child again, and when you do you will see that your child has been joyful and cared for in your brief separation. Do not grieve if you can help it, but spread joy to those who also grieve. Ask me and I will help you to do this because I know it seems an impossible thing. All is well in Heaven. Have no fear that your child is not with God. We must all cooperate with Heaven during this time, so prayerfully consider what it is Jesus needs from you.

Note: Please be careful not to confuse Mary, an unknown saint, with Mary, our Blessed Mother.

Mary (an unknown saint)
Speaks to Mothers

Again, today, I speak to mothers. Jesus, who understands all, wishes that I speak to you with the wisdom of experience. When someone speaks to you about a skill and you suspect the person knows nothing about the topic they are addressing, you tend to wonder why you should listen. But when someone speaks to you with the benefit of experience, you listen more carefully, because if you are wise you will wish to learn from that person's experience and so avoid mistakes you might otherwise make. I wish to help you understand the noble task of mothering God has willed for you. If you are a mother, the parenting and direction of your child must be the first priority of each day. You must see to the child's needs before anything else. If you are working in a job where it is not possible for you to do this, you must consider carefully whether or not our Lord wishes you to remain in that job. Again I must say that I do not mean mothers who are working to provide food and shelter for their children. You will know if you are working from necessity or working from the desire to acquire more worldly possessions than you need. Let us examine what is necessary for a child to flourish in today's world. Food, shelter, and clothing are the barest concrete necessities. What kind of food does your child need? Simple food, prepared at home, by someone who loves the child. This is the best way to nourish a growing body. If your child is well used to eating at home and eating simple foods, that child will not demand more elaborate fare. If the child does demand more elaborate fare, you simply say 'no.' Now we look at shelter. When a child is born and is laid in his mother's arms, he does not wonder how many rooms are in his house. He feels safe and warm and is content. That child is brought home. Again, he is not concerned with how big his house is, rather, he is concerned that when he cries, his mother responds. The child begins to grow and look around. Still, he does not say, 'Why don't I have a big house? Why don't I have an expensive car to drive in?' He looks to his parents for guidance in this area, and if his parents are content with what the family has, then the child understands there is no reason to complain. If a parent is discontent and always longing for something better or something more, the child feels he, too, has been shorted. Mothers, please set a tone of thanksgiving for what you have, regardless of how humble your possessions may be. Your child will follow suit and you will set the course for a lifetime of contentment, rather than a lifetime of greed and covetousness. I must speak about clothing. Again, if you do not entertain thoughts of bitterness that your clothes are not as fine as the next person's, your child will think nothing of it. When he comes home and says other children have better clothing than he does, you can say that in Heaven nobody looks at clothing, and praise the beauty of your child's soul and the lovely virtues he is developing. 'My child will not like this,' some will say. Again I say to you, dear mothers, that your child will adopt the tone you set. Set a tone of simplicity in your home and explain to your child how your family rejects the notion that fine clothes and homes make fine people. Holy households make fine people and that is what you must strive for. You will find peace in your home if you try to implement these concepts because you will have all of Heaven assisting you. I understand that some children have been exposed to worldly ideas, and we will speak about that tomorrow. For today, concentrate on simplicity in your home.

Mary (an unknown saint)
Speaks to Mothers

Dear mothers, you must serve tirelessly. Those who have not experienced motherhood cannot understand how hard it can be to work, performing the same tasks over and over. When you perform these tasks in love, great graces can be obtained for both your family and for the Kingdom. In this way you are directly contributing to the advancement of the cause of Heaven. Jesus is so pleased with this kind of cooperative service and he will reward you in countless ways. Cleaning your floors then becomes a divine service, as does washing your dishes, or cleaning the children's clothes, or any of the hundreds of domestic chores you perform daily. I am in Heaven now and I have the benefit of such wisdom and knowledge. You would be overjoyed to see my reward, yet I was a simple housewife. I looked on my role of mother as a serious role. I considered each child individually and wondered where they would serve. I tried to help them develop their strengths, while searching for any character flaws which might cause them hardship. When I spotted something I felt might be a problem for a child, I tried to help them conquer this flaw. Little acts of self control or kindness should be praised in your small ones because as they grow they will practice that same control as adults. There is no way to understand the importance of that early formation. Truly, believe me when I tell you that your children will behave the same way as adults as they did when they were children. If a troublesome behavior is allowed as a child, that individual will practice that same behavior as an adult, only you will have little power to correct it. So watch your children closely and praise their little virtues with great constancy. Praise and encouragement will win the day with little ones. When you do identify that little flaw, mothers, speak softly but firmly and explain how Jesus will help with any temptations. Do not criticize your children in such a way that they are embarrassed, as this is never a good thing and causing a child public shame results in the most serious of effects. But you can quietly and privately explain why such behavior is wrong and how it could hurt either someone else or the person committing the act. The little soul is so precious and must be preserved. We teach children how to clean themselves and how to feed themselves. We must also teach children how to clean and feed their little souls. Many of today's children do not even know they have a soul, much less how to protect it and maintain it. Poor Jesus. How he looks with sadness upon these precious little ones, so hungry in spiritual terms. Mothers, treat this responsibility with the greatest of reverence. I want to help you. Our Lady wants to help you. I prayed to her so often and she always helped me. There were many times when I worried myself nearly sick over a child. There was no need for this. I should have trusted more. I urge you all to pray together, but we hardly need talk about the necessity of family prayer. Many invisible graces flow down upon a family during family prayer. Those graces provide unseen ties which hold a family close during all trials. Pretend these ties are visible, and that you can see them flowing down upon your family as you pray together. When you attempt to introduce family prayer to those children who have not prayed together in the past, you may experience resistance. Expect this. Also, when you say 'no' to a child who has previously been given many material things, they may feel anger. It will pass. Your child will object to being forced to pray and having material things taken away. Be brave, mothers. Be strong. Do not think for a moment that your decisions should be based on the anger or resistance of your children. Make your decision. Your children will come around if you are firm. Pray to Our Lady to help you turn your household into another holy family that serves the Kingdom. She will hear you and she will help. Set an example of calm holiness yourself and I promise you that all will be well.

Speaks to Mothers

We must speak today to all mothers who are alone in the parenting of their children. Dear mother, you are supposed to have help, it is true. It is very difficult to be alone in a job that requires two people. Do not be afraid, though, because in this situation Heaven steps in with great power. You must tell yourself to be brave. You will never be alone in any problem that involves your parenting. God is the Father of your children and he has placed them in your care. He will see that you have everything you need to shepherd your children through their childhoods. You must communicate with him constantly about your fears, your concerns over their development, and, of course, providing for their material needs. You should also confide in Mary, the Blessed Mother. She was a constant source of comfort and support to me in my own parenting. Between Jesus and Mary, you will have all of the assistance you require. Please believe that if you are following the path to Heaven, your children will also follow the path to Heaven. A great deal of the work of parenting is done in the example you set. If you walk constantly toward Christ, your children will recognize that path, and they will recognize when they have left that path. You are not a single parent, dear mother, because you are part of a heavenly team that is going to ensure your children receive exactly what they need to serve Christ. You have many friends in Heaven who understand your struggles. Cry out to them when you are worried. When you experience joy and there is nobody there to share it with you, share it with Jesus. He will experience such delight if you do this. Jesus wants people to rely on him in grief, of course, but he takes special joy in a person calling him in to share family happiness or accomplishment. This will create for Jesus a firm role in your family, and he will not disappoint you or fail to pull his share of the weight. Such a thing is not possible. You must always remember this, dear little mother who feels so afraid at times. You are not alone. Speak constantly to Heaven about your children. Heaven is filled with souls who cherish them as much as you do. Mothers, there will be children who divert from the heavenly path at times. You must try not to be alarmed because this is common. Pray constantly for these souls, of course, but show them peace in the face of their rebellion. Explain that they have left the heavenly path and that if they are off the path when Christ comes, there is the danger of not getting back to the path in time to get to Heaven. I speak of course about older children who have rejected Christ and Christian living. I hear the cries of mothers who worry over these rebellious ones. That is why I speak of it. Remember that Christ is all mercy to a mother. Your maternal prayers are powerful so continue to pray for your child, but do not think that all is lost, regardless of the circumstances. Even in the direst cases, Jesus will forgive all for the sake of a holy mother. Really, there is nothing you should upset yourself with, dear mothers. Our Lord will save your children and protect their eternities. Your job is to cooperate with him. Speak the truth to your children fearlessly, in kindness and love, and they will belong to Christ.

June 11, 2004
Mary (an unknown saint)
Speaks to Mothers

Mothers of this time have many understandable fears. The world seeks to snatch souls from Jesus and attempts to entice children away from the path. Mothers, do not fear, but talk to your children about sin. When a child commits an act that is sinful, you must tell the child they have committed a sin. You must then make a habit of participating in the Sacrament of Reconciliation so the child understands that while they have committed a sin, forgiveness is available. You must secure your children's habit now, so that when grown they understand not only that a sin has been committed, but how they should go about cleansing their soul. They must know they have a need for this Sacrament. Point this out to them. Mothers, be certain your children participate in this Sacrament often. These habits stick, which is why it is so important to ingrain them in people when they are young. If you do this, you will see your children taking responsibility for their mistakes as adults. This is what the world is lacking during this time of darkness. There is a great deal of blame being laid by souls who refuse to acknowledge their mistakes. In this way, they do not have to change sinful patterns of behavior. The world reinforces this by a constant game of blaming someone or something other than the person who committed the act. Mothers, do not allow this to happen in your home. Be kind and understanding, always, but if a child commits an action that has risen to the level of sinful behavior, you have an obligation to call it by name, and the name of such an act is sin.

It can be difficult if your husband is not following the same path. This is a great cross for you and also a great cross for your children. In that case you must pray with the greatest of diligence, every day, for your husband's conversion. You must also continue to set the example, often in the face of ridicule, that you will not be enticed to sin simply because your husband is behaving in a rebellious way.

Many marriages today are ill-advised because one of the parties has no intention of following Christ. If this is the case, you must not marry this person. You cannot be expected to bring up children as Christians if your husband refuses to acknowledge Christ as the leader. Take heart, though, if you are in this situation. Do your best, dear woman, and let Jesus flow into your home with special graces. He will do this, and he will hear your pleas for peace in your home. Also, do not lose hope that your husband will convert. Your children will also know the truth, and, although there will be times when it suits them to follow the path of the non-believer, they will return to Christ. The best way, indeed the only way, to have a holy family is to live in holiness and allow Christ to protect your family. He will do this for you.

June 12, 2004
Mary (an unknown saint)
Speaks to Mothers

We must all give great thanks and praise to God the Father for allowing these many graces to flow down into your world. It is a sign of his great mercy that so many of us are allowed to speak to you. I have a special affinity with mothers, of course, because so much of my life was spent in this role. I want to say a brief word to mothers of children who are ill or who struggle with disability. Mothers, your little child will be perfectly healed in Heaven. You must believe that God understands your heartache and that he wishes to walk with you in this heartache at each moment. I know how difficult this may be, but try to accept that God had a purpose for allowing your child to experience this suffering. You are a part of that purpose, so be certain you continually ask God to send each and every grace available to you. Set a tone of joyful acceptance always and your child will understand that they are precious and perfect in your eyes and in the eyes of God. I lost a little child to sickness so I understand the great sorrow attached to this heavy cross. You will never regret that you accepted great sorrow for Christ. Please believe me when I tell you that in Heaven all is

joy. If you are struggling with crosses involving your children, you must cry out often to Heaven, sometimes all day long.

Heaven will help you in many ways, but the most important grace Heaven will send is peace. Peace will soothe your family and decrease the weight of your cross. Do not compare your family life to others, who live only for the world. You must live for Heaven and for the Kingdom, so compare your family life to that of the Holy Family. Jesus, Mary, and Joseph lived simply and humbly, offering all to Heaven. They often went quietly without something for lack of money. They spent time in exile. They served God in everything, seeking only his will. They were fair and just in their dealings with others and used the family home setting to increase their virtues by selfless service to each other. Mary, our heavenly mother, is the model of all mothers. She was kind, gentle, and she was constant and consistent. She did not require long holidays from her role as mother. Her husband and child were her first priority and her role in the home was her vocation. Joseph is the model for fathers and wishes to speak with you himself. In Heaven, Joseph is honored with the greatest of reverence. His faith alone makes him worthy of the greatest reward, but his humility also bears mention.

He will speak to all, but especially to fathers. I thank God for allowing me, Mary, a humble little saint in Heaven's ranks, to speak with you. Call on me for anything. My love and prayers are with you.

PART TWO:
ST. JOSEPH
SPEAKS TO FATHERS

June 14, 2004
St. Joseph Speaks to Fathers

I send the most affectionate greetings to my brothers and sisters on Earth. I have come particularly to speak to fathers during this time of darkness. If you have been given a child or the care of a child, you must take responsibility for the formation and support of that child. I wish to share a glimpse of my family with you, so you can follow the example we have set. There were three of us, Jesus, Mary, and me, Joseph. I took responsibility, as much as possible, for the support of the family. We were poor, it is true, because we lived in difficult times and for a time we were exiled. When you move to a land that is not your home, you are often at a disadvantage with regard to work. That was the case for me, and while I was skilled at my profession, I found it difficult to obtain as much work as I would have liked. Nevertheless, I made enough to keep us and we lived simply. I taught my son that work was to be enjoyed and that through work a soul gave God great glory. I worked steadily and thoroughly, always being scrupulously honest and fair. My reputation was sound and I would have been known as a just man, both professionally and personally. I understood that my responsibility to Jesus was important to the Kingdom. I had the task of accompanying him through his precious childhood. Jesus, I must say, did not require any real correcting, because he was a most beautiful and sweet boy. His kindness brought tears to my eyes, sometimes many times in one day. I will say truly that he was an example to me. With that said, however, I also tried to be an example to him and so must you be to your children. While I understand that you are not called upon to accompany Jesus through his childhood, you must understand that your child or children are equally precious in their humanity, because each little soul is of equal value in the Kingdom. Each day and each moment of each day is an opportunity to teach your child what it is to be a follower in God's Kingdom. If I were allowed, I could write pages and pages, speaking only of the holiness of Mary, the Mother of Christ. Can you imagine the honor that was mine? I was given the task of parenting with Mary as my partner. I will say briefly that Mary was the kindest, most gentle and most humble woman ever created by God. You must not think she was given these virtues or that it was easy for her. This was not the case. Mary sacrificed each day and practiced these virtues. She was another constant source of example to me. How could I have been anything but virtuous living with these two heavenly creatures? Fathers, mine is the honor of instructing you on leading your families to Christ. Thank our loving Father in Heaven for this grace because it is a very beautiful thing for him to allow. Treat these words with humility and reverence and he, the God of All, will bring peace and joy to your families. You can be another pocket of holiness, as we were, and I will show you how. Remember that you have great and limitless help from Heaven. Do not be discouraged if your family is struggling with worldly influences at this moment. I will help you and together we will move toward the example our little Holy Family has set for you. All is well. Let us begin.

June 15, 2004

St. Joseph Speaks to Fathers

Fathers of the world, listen carefully to my words. Please understand that you will be held accountable for your parenting. In most cases, a father should be with his children. In cases where he cannot, through circumstances beyond his control, that is different. But I speak to the majority of fathers at this time. Your children are your treasure and they are also a large part of your salvation. You will gain the greatest of graces through your parenting of your children. To begin with the most fundamental advice, you must be with your children in order to properly parent them. Many fathers today view the role of father as simply a provider. They feel that as long as they are providing for their children's material needs, their job is being completed. Fathers, you know this is not the case. Providing for your children's material needs is only one aspect of your role as father. You must accept that if you are not at work, generally speaking, you should be with your family. Children learn from observing and modeling. They cannot do this if you are not in their company. Be with your children, fathers. You need do nothing, only set a calm example. Be about your household chores and let the children see that you are dutiful. Another current trend that concerns Heaven is that of purity. Fathers, children must learn how important it is to be pure. Are your children learning this from you? They will learn it by observing the entertainment you participate in. How do you respond to entertainment that depicts impure actions and situations? Fathers, these things are not acceptable for you. You must not watch entertainment that illustrates mortal sin. Certainly your children should not watch these things either. That, dear men, is a profound truth, and if you are allowing your children to view behaviors on television that depict sin, you are in effect teaching them these behaviors. You must understand that by not objecting to these things, you are teaching your children that these behaviors are acceptable. This must stop. When you reject a program because it is illustrating un-Christian behaviors, you must take the opportunity to explain to your children why you are doing so and why the behavior you are rejecting is not Christian. Do you understand? You can ask me to help you in this issue if you are unsure because homes are being contaminated constantly in this manner. This form of entertainment is unsuitable for you, dear men of God. You want to come to Heaven, do you not? Then you must begin to prepare yourselves on Earth. You can do this by spending time with your children in purity, and doing things together that do not offend God. You will be accountable for each word you say to your children. God does not expect you to be perfect. Do not be afraid. You will make mistakes, of course, and that is understood and forgiven. But you must not allow a pattern of entertainment in your home that is objectionable to Heaven. Consider always what Jesus would say about a form of entertainment. He is with you, you know, at each moment. Be aware of his presence and you can then judge your actions and activities by his standard. I will help you to escape from any bad habits that have taken hold of you. Be cheerful and courageous and together we will purify your life.

June 16, 2004
St. Joseph Speaks to Fathers

Dear fathers of the world, you must heed my voice. I am speaking to you from a place of kindness and concern. We in Heaven watch the events in the world because we are eager to assist you. We hear your prayers and immediately begin interceding for you so that any graces available can be utilized. Allow us to help you examine your role as a father so you can be certain you are fulfilling this role as God desires. You must examine your role in comparison to me, Joseph, the head of the Holy Family. Do not examine your role in comparison to a person who is not following God. You must take this opportunity to also look at your companions. Are they true followers? Do they encourage you to be a good father and husband? Are they themselves good fathers and husbands? Dear man, if they are not fulfilling their role as father and husband, it will be difficult for you to resist their influence. Many in this time will encourage you to put yourself first, but I tell you in all seriousness that you should not do this. Your wife and children must come first. You are to lead your family to Heaven. In Heaven, the first will be last. Consider yourself a servant to your family. In this way you will not spend too much time meditating on how you would like to follow the world. You live in a world of great darkness. I must speak the truth so you know how critical it is that your family be steered safely through these times. With the help of Heaven, you will do this successfully. But in order to obtain this help, you must ask for it. In order to ask for it, you must be prayerful. If you are not prayerful, you will not see the need to pray. You will be too busy scurrying from one day to the next and telling yourself that all is well because this is what everyone else is doing. Fathers, set a tone of quietness in your home whenever possible. Children in your care will then feel free to come to you with their little difficulties and fears. Be available to them by often sitting quietly or working in silence. There is no need for the constant distraction of noise. It dulls your soul, dear man, and God cannot find rest in you. If you spend time in silence, your soul will calm and God can claim you and communicate with you. He will inspire you to give consideration to his will for your life. He will give you an awareness of the large view of your life and your family, pulling you away from distractions of the moment. If your large view includes Heaven and serving God, you will understand that you must live each moment differently. Set your sight on Heaven, for both you and your family, and you will see your perspective begin to shift a little here and alter a little there. This is a process and you can be comfortable that all will not change in a day, particularly if you have been spending too much time in the world or practicing bad habits. But it will change. Gradually, your home will feel different to you. You will long for holiness for each of the people in your family who are walking your life journey with you. You will see their spiritual development as the priority. Dearest man, created by God, this is your role. You, in partnership with your wife, are to shepherd your little ones through their childhoods so they can grow strong in service to the Kingdom. Be brave and allow me, Joseph, to show you how this should be done.

Dear sons of God, you must treat fatherhood like the great honor that it is. By allowing you to provide formation to a child, God has placed a degree of trust in you. You will not want to disappoint him. You must listen to him for direction on what your children require for the best possible preparation in life. Because each person is unique, the approach that works for one child will not work for all. Thoughtful consideration must be given to each child and to which approach will best suit his or her nature. Fathers, when do you give the rearing of your children this consideration? You should spend some time each day thinking of your children and what they need. It is important, of course, that they be fed and clothed, but not to excess. It is important that they have shelter and, if possible, an education. What I want to stress to you, fathers of the world, is that your children need your love, along with these other things. Children, more than anything, must know that their father loves them and considers them precious. Your actions every day will tell your children how you feel about them. If you are called to correct a child, do so gently, with love. If a child angers you, you must remember that you were once a child and made similar mistakes. Do not frighten your children, fathers. This is not love. This is the opposite of love. Your child should respect you, of course, and you should not tolerate behavior that will not be welcome in the Kingdom, but expect some bad behavior and expect to have to gently correct your children. Fathers often make the mistake of thinking that their primary function with children is to be disciplinarian. This is an error. Your primary function as a father is to love and then to set an example your children can follow, which will result in eternity in Heaven. Are you doing this, dear man? Be vigilant in examining your own behavior and be certain your children are not mimicking something in you when they misbehave. This is important, so pay heed. I love you dearly, men of the world. I understand the influences with which you struggle. That is why you must spend time in prayer, and not with entertainment.

Jesus wants to help you and he wants you to help him. This is a dark time for mankind because many have said 'no' to God and to holy living. If you have done this, you must tell Jesus today that you are willing to change and that you desire his help to do so. I tell you most sincerely that Jesus will handle everything if you are willing to change. He will forgive you every sin. He will mitigate any damage neglect has done to your children. Jesus, in short, will solve your problems, but you must spend time in silence with him. Make prayer the most important part of your day, fathers. Only in this way can you determine what Jesus requires from you with regard to your life and your parenting. Heaven understands you have pressures and that you must earn your living and support your family. Heaven respects these things because it is Heaven which has ordained this way of life for you. You must constantly ask Heaven to guide you in these matters, as well as in spiritual matters. We will hear your prayers and assist you. But you must be the head of your family now and set a tone of respect for God.

June 18, 2004
St. Joseph Speaks to Fathers

Again today I call out to fathers. Dear men, you must face your mistakes fearlessly. Examine with me the way you live. Do you live for God? If God were to call you home to Heaven today, could you lie down peacefully, content that you had worthily accepted your vocation as husband and father? As human beings, created by God, we are all subject to his time. When he decrees that your time on Earth has passed, it has passed. There will be no second chances with regard to either your life or your parenting. When your children are grown, the opportunity to influence them diminishes. You should never give up setting an example for your children and attempting to help them see the straight path to Heaven, but you can do far more with children than adults. So you see, dear man, you must seize the opportunity to mold your child when he or she is small. Many people on Earth think they are entitled to great amounts of relaxation and play time. I tell you most solemnly that play time is for children. If you are an adult, you should be concerned with serving Christ, and not with entertaining yourself. If you spend time in silent prayer, considering Jesus and what he did for you, you will understand what it is he asks that you do for him. This is simple, I know, but I assure you, few men are giving Christ this time to work in their souls. It is for this reason we have reached the current level of darkness. Historically man said 'no' to sin. In this day man says 'yes' to sin. Children suffer because if man is saying 'yes' to sin, he is saying 'no' to his vocation. You cannot live two ways, my dear friend, so you must make a choice. Choose God. There is no future for you or your family in choosing darkness. Do not underestimate the power of God to assist a person who seeks goodness. He will help you.

I would like to speak about how I treated Mary, my wife on Earth. I treated her with the greatest dignity and respect. I tried to help her when I could, and I remained in constant awareness of her comfort and happiness. I was unable to provide her with great wealth, and sometimes we were forced to go without, subsisting with the barest of necessities. She did not complain and I did not rail against God for placing us in trying times. I humbly placed my little family in the care of God and did the best I could to provide for them. Dear men of the world, there are those who are in far more need than you, whatever your circumstances. You must be content with what God has given you. Remember there will always be those with more, and there will always be those with less. Praise God in everything and you will be cared for by Heaven. When you worry about material things, consider what would happen if you were to do without many of the things you have today. Would you starve? Spend some time considering what your body needs for survival and I think you will see that you have been given these things. There may come a time when you do not have as much as you have today. How you will shake your heads at your former complaints. Do you understand what I am trying to tell you? Do not wish for more; wish to be happier with less. Pray this way and God will help you by showing you that you do not need all of these things with which you surround yourself. These things are a distraction. Your families are no happier than those who have less, and this I say from experience. We were happy on Earth and we had little. Keep a heavenly perspective and you will not feel that you require more.

June 19, 2004
St. Joseph Speaks to Fathers

Dear men, destined to serve God, please consider that your first duty is to your family. Indeed, caring for your wife and children is your sacred duty, and all of Heaven will help you to make this your priority. God's love will flow through you into your home, and he, through you, will be the leader of your family. Do you want this to happen? Look closely at your home and family and determine if it is already this way. If it is, then all is well and we will continue on, Heaven working closely with you to steer your family through difficult times. If this is not the case, then you must understand there is work to be done in your life. Most men in today's world have a little work to do, so do not be discouraged if you see things which must be removed from your life. Be brave and steady and you will come to know God's will for you. Dear man, you were created by God to serve during this time and God needs your service. He is calling out to all his children now and asking that people put aside worldly desires in favor of heavenly desires. Come to the most direct path to Heaven and do not leave this path again. Please. In a very short time, you will be so glad you served. These times are not ordinary times, my dear friend. These are extraordinary times, and the greatest of heavenly help is available for God's servants.

Do not be anxious about this. Be grateful. Jesus is all good. If you but knew the depth of his compassion and love for you, there would be no need for any words at all. But people in the world have been distracted and the view of Heaven has been all but obliterated by the darkness of sin. There is little joy on Earth and many people wander in despair. You must not do that. You are a child of the Kingdom and you must walk in joy. I will show you the path to joy. As a man of God, you have the greatest of dignity as your right. That dignity comes from living a purposeful life in union with Jesus. When you seek his will, look no further than your family and you will find your path to salvation. Join us, the army that seeks to wage war on darkness. We are brave and loyal to our King. Our King, Jesus Christ, gives us all we require for this battle. He has a particular mission for you, but you must sit in silence and ask him to reveal it to you. I, Joseph, am very close to the Savior. I will intercede for you to help you eradicate sin in your life and restore your heavenly role to its rightful level of holiness. Be at peace in everything, and do not hesitate to answer 'yes' to God.

PART THREE:
JESUS SPEAKS
TO CHILDREN

August 2, 2004 Jesus

My servants must remember that sin is an intentional mistake and should not be confused with an unintentional mistake, such as dropping a glass. Little children very often obey their impulses and commit small transgressions, such as striking out at another. Along with our Blessed Mother, Mary, I refer to these acts as mistakes. This is acceptable when referring to the acts of children. Deliberate acts of malice, committed by older children or adults, should be referred to as sin, which is always forgivable.

Prayers for Children

- ✠ Jesus, forgive them.

- ✠ Mother Mary, help me to be good.

- ✠ God in Heaven, you are the creator of all things.
Please send your graces down upon our world.

✠ Jesus, I love you.

Jesus Speaks to Children

Dear children of the world, how I love you. You were created by God the Father and he created each one of you with the most careful thought. Indeed, in Heaven's eyes, you are perfectly delightful. I am Jesus, and I am in Heaven with the Father. But because I am God and come from God, I can do anything. I am powerful, dear children, but I do not like to show off, so I do not use my powers in silly ways. I use my powers in important ways, that will help people. One way I use my power is to make people happy when they are sad or worried. Are you sad or worried? If you are, then you must come to me and I will make you happy again. It is important for you to know how to come to me so I am going to tell you. When you wish to come to me, Jesus, and tell me about your problems, you must pray. There are many ways to pray and they are all perfect. One way to pray is to close your eyes and speak to me silently in your head. You might wonder how I can hear you if you are speaking silently. That is part of my magic, dear little child. When you wish to speak to me, your Jesus, who is your very best friend, you can speak to me at any time, in any place. I will hear you. I will listen carefully to your worries or to your troubles, and I will help you.

You will not see me, but I will be there. I am in Heaven, yes, as I told you. But I am also everywhere on Earth. Wherever you are, I am also. So if you are playing, I am there. If you are eating, I am there. If you are going to sleep at night, I am with you. You will never be in a place where I am not. I am your invisible friend and I never go away from you. So tell me everything that worries you, because I love you and I want to know. I can help you with many problems. You will know I am with you because after you speak to Me you will feel a bit better. That is my magic. You must trust me in everything because I love you very much. I think you are perfect. I am going to tell you about me so that you know you have a very powerful invisible friend.

June 22, 2004

Jesus Speaks to Children

I am with you, dear children of the world. I am with you everywhere. Do not be afraid because I am all powerful and I am your friend. You understand that when you are finished in this world, you will come to my home, and that my home is in Heaven. I have prepared a beautiful place for you to live, where you will be very happy with all of the people you love from Earth. Heaven is the nicest place you could ever imagine. There are beautiful lakes and streams where you can play. You will never be hungry or afraid in Heaven because there is no badness. No one can hurt you in Heaven. You will have many friends here and you will never be sick. Heaven is the perfect place and it is filled with my friends because I am Jesus and I am God. Do you want to come to Heaven? You are welcome here, my dearest child, because I love you. I will be waiting for you and when you are finished on Earth, I will take you to Heaven. What a happy day that will be! You will be happy because you are coming to this wonderful place, and I will be happy because I am going to be with you forever. Everyone in Heaven will be happy because they love you already and wait for you to come here to join them. They have so much to show you and to tell you. You will have great fun in Heaven, little child. Sometimes, when you are sad or afraid on Earth, you might say, "Jesus, come and take me to Heaven now." But I cannot do that, dearest child of my heart, until it is time. You have to finish your time on Earth first. I am the only one who knows when your life is finished and it is my job to come for you. Do not worry, though, because I will come for you the very moment you are finished with your work. You see, my friends who are here with me in Heaven helped me while they were on Earth. I am your Jesus and I need help from all of my friends now. Soon I will tell you about your job so you will know how you can help me, too.

June 23, 2004

Jesus Speaks to Children

I have told you about Heaven. You will be happy here and this is truly your home. Now I want to tell you how you can help me. I am part of a family and so are you. We are part of the same family. It is a bigger family than you belong to on Earth. This bigger family includes all people. I want all people to come home to Heaven when they are finished on Earth, but some will need help because they are not trying hard enough to be good. Are you trying to be good? Well, this is the first way that I need your help. I, your Jesus, am asking you to try to be good. When you try to be good, it is like you are giving me a present. Would you like to give me a present? Just do your best to be a good boy or a good girl and you will make me very happy. I can use your present and turn it into forgiveness for someone who is making mistakes. You will make mistakes too sometimes, so you understand how it can be hard to be good. But I forgive you every mistake you have made and I will forgive you every mistake that you will ever make. I would like to forgive everyone for their mistakes but some people do not want to say they are sorry. You see, my little friend, all a person needs to do to come to Heaven is try to be good, and say they are sorry when they make a mistake. Even if they have made many terrible mistakes, I forgive them. But they have to say they are sorry, just like you say you are sorry when you hurt someone. Trying to be good while you are on Earth is like doing your job for your heavenly family. I will tell you now another way you can help me. You must say often, 'Jesus, forgive them.' You do not need to say it out loud if you do not want to. You can say it in your head, because remember I told you I can hear you speaking even when you are speaking silently. If you say, 'Jesus, forgive them,' I can save many people and bring them to Heaven. I want everyone in Heaven so this will be helping me. Will you do that for me? You are my friend and I am your friend. I will give you a big reward for helping Me and I will give you many presents when you come to Heaven. Thank you, dear friend. I am your Jesus and I thank you.

June 24, 2004

Jesus Speaks to Children

Dear children of the world, I am happy to talk with you. You are so precious to me and I think of you all day, every day. I watch you when you are unhappy and I hope that you will talk to me so I can make you feel better. I will always be close to you, so you can talk to me whenever you wish. The most important thing for you to remember is that I am with you. There are two other important things for you to remember also. One is that I love everyone, even when they are making mistakes. Do not think that I stop loving a person because they do the wrong thing. I love them just as much and I love you just as much, when you do the wrong thing. The second thing you must remember is that you can talk to me when you make a mistake. Come to me quickly when you do something wrong. If you come to me, I can make you feel better and forgive you at once. That way you will not feel sad inside and make more mistakes because you feel badly. That can happen, with adults as well as children. So you must remember that I love you always, even when you make mistakes. And you must also remember that if you make a mistake, you must talk to me right away. Tell me about the mistake and say you are sorry. I will then help you not to make more mistakes. You see, my beautiful child, I can help you with everything. You must ask me to help you and you can be certain that I will.

June 25, 2004

Jesus Speaks to Children

My dearest children, I want you to know me. I know you perfectly. I know what makes you happy and I know what frightens you. I am your Jesus and I am your God. You hear many stories about kings. Well, I am the greatest king because I am the King of all people. Most stories you hear are pretend stories, about imaginary kings. Dear child, I am real. My story is a true story and you can believe everything I tell you. I am truly with you. I will never leave you. At the end of your life I will come for you and bring you to Heaven. Be happy. I love you most tenderly.

I want to tell you today about the different parts of you. You have two parts. You have a body and you have a soul. Your body carries your soul because your soul is inside your body. The body, your arms and legs and everything else, is the part you can see. The soul is the invisible part. You cannot see it, like you cannot see me, but it is there. Your soul is beautiful and I am in your soul. You must always try to eat so that your body can feel good and grow. Well, it is the very same with your soul. You must always try to pray because that is how you feed your soul. Whenever you talk to me in prayer, your soul becomes stronger and grows. If you never talk to me, your soul might feel sick or weak. How will you know if your soul is sick? I will tell you. You will know if your soul is sick because you will begin to feel unhappy. I do not want you to be unhappy. There are many people who have very sick bodies but they are happy and that is because they have a very healthy soul. When you die in your body, as everyone does, it is time for your soul to live and so your soul comes to Heaven with me. It is your soul that I will come to collect at the end of your life. During your time on Earth, when you live in your body, you must always remember to feed your soul so it is nice and strong because a nice strong soul will get you straight to Heaven. Talk to me often, dear child. Talking to me is prayer and it is prayer that makes your soul grow strong.

June 26, 2004

Jesus Speaks to Children

My little ones, it is my greatest wish that you remain close to me. I do not want you to live your life thinking that Jesus is not with you or Jesus does not love you. Always remember me and remember that I love you. I will help you, dear child. I will help you in many ways. Sometimes you might be with people who do not love me. You must pray for them. Ask me to help them and I will do so. You have a great deal of power if you are my friend because you can ask me to do things for you and I will, as long as you are asking me to help others. Believe in me, dear child. It hurts my feelings that so few believe in me or talk to me. Some people would rather have a lot of things than be my friend. I know you love to have toys. I like you to have toys, too, because it is good for you to play. But I do not like you to have too many toys, and I do not like you to keep your toys all for yourself, never letting anyone else play. Share your toys and I will be happy. If you do not have a lot of toys, be happy, little child. You will have as many as you want in Heaven. You will have everything in Heaven that you wish for. It is often better if you do not have a lot of things on Earth because then you are not tempted to become selfish or greedy. People are selfish and greedy when they want to have many things and keep them all to themselves. I have given you the world in which you live. I gave you clouds, sunshine, water, trees, and grass. All of these things come from me because I created all of these things. Every so often you should try to give something away and pretend you are giving it to me. If you give anything away, dearest child, I will give you credit for giving it to me and I will give you back far more when you reach Heaven. Always share. It is good for you and makes me very happy. I love you perfectly. I will always love you perfectly. I am your friend. I am Jesus.

PART FOUR:
MARY,
OUR BLESSED MOTHER,
SPEAKS TO CHILDREN

June 29, 2004
Mary, our Blessed Mother,
Speaks to Children

Dearest little children, I am Mary, your heavenly mother. I am the mother of Jesus and the mother of all people also. I want to tell you about Jesus because it is so important for you to know about him. You see, my dearest little children, Jesus loves you very much. He wants to bring each one of you safely to Heaven. Heaven is your real home, where you will live forever. Many people on Earth forget about Heaven and think Earth is their only home. This is not true and if you believe that Earth is your only home, you will not try to earn Heaven and you may make more mistakes. If you always think about Heaven, and being good so you can get to Heaven, you will do better and Jesus will be happy. I am your heavenly mother and I help many souls get to Heaven. You can talk to me as well as to Jesus. I will help you with many things, but mostly I will help you learn about Jesus and learn how to love him. I am his helper, you see, so my job is to bring people to him. I will do that for you if you would like me to. You can say simply, 'Mother, help me to be good.' I will hear you immediately and I will begin helping you. In this way you will have someone who loves you and *understands you and who is always looking out for you.

Call on me often, my beautiful little child, because I am your heavenly mother and I love you.*

June 29, 2004
Mary, our Blessed Mother,
Speaks to Children

How happy I am to be talking to you in this way! God is very good to allow me to do so. You see, dear children, usually God does not allow people in Heaven to communicate with people on Earth. God is allowing it now because this is a special time. During this time, your time on Earth, Heaven is doing special work. There are many people on Earth who do not understand that God is the One who is in charge of everything. These people think they are in charge and they are trying to be better than God. This is a mistake for them and they must change. All people must understand that God created the world and each person in the world. God allows the sun to shine, God allows the rain to fall. If God did not allow these things to happen, these things would stop. We must always thank God for making the world so beautiful for us. When you thank God for making the world and for making you, he is happy and he sends even more graces down to the world. Graces are good things that come from Heaven. So you must join me, Mary, your mother in Heaven, and ask God for more graces from Heaven for the world. Will you do that? Will you help me? Together we will say, 'God in Heaven, you are the Creator of all things. Please send your graces down upon our world.'

I thank you, dear children. I love you very much. I will help you in everything. Like Jesus, I can always hear you, so talk to me often. I will always be close to you.

June 30, 2004
Mary, our Blessed Mother,
Speaks to Children

Dear little children of Heaven, your Blessed Mother loves you. I look with such happiness on you as you play and work. All of Heaven watches you and helps you when you are in trouble. Be happy knowing this. Be happy in the thought that Jesus also loves you and watches you with delight. You are Heaven's little treasures and your prayers are so important to us here. When a child speaks to Heaven, God the Father always listens carefully, because children pray the most favorable prayers. Your prayers are often even more powerful than an adult's prayers because usually children are more pure. Being pure is important, little children. Do not use bad words or watch bad things on television because if you do these things, your purity will go away. Purity means always trying to think about good and happy things. Think about me, your heavenly mother, and Jesus, your heavenly king. Think about all of the wonderful saints in Heaven. Saints are people who lived in the world and did a good job for Jesus. You can be a saint, too, and that is what I want for you. I want you to be my little saint. Will you try to do that for me? I will help you by reminding you when you should pray. When you think of me, say a prayer. When you think of Jesus, say a prayer. It does not have to be a big prayer. It can be simply, 'Jesus, I love you.' That is a good prayer to say and it will make Jesus and me so happy. I am with you, little child of my heart. I am always with you.

July 1, 2004
Mary, our Blessed Mother,
Speaks to Children

Dearest little children, I am your heavenly mother and I love you. I want to bring you to Jesus. I do that by helping you understand the great love Jesus has for you. Many people think of God as someone far away who is very busy with the business of Heaven. This is not true. Jesus is God and Jesus is very busy looking after people on Earth. Jesus loves you most tenderly. Jesus loves you so much that he died on the cross for you. He died on the cross so that Heaven's doors would be open to every boy and girl in the world. And Heaven's doors are open to you, little child. We wait for you to come to Heaven where you will be happy forever. I want you to know that each person makes mistakes on Earth. That is why Jesus chose to die for you. He knew you would make mistakes. He wanted to be certain there was enough forgiveness for each mistake made by every person. Never worry about your mistakes. Even the greatest saints made many mistakes. When you say you are sorry to Jesus, Jesus forgives you for your mistake and he forgets about your mistake. Sometimes children think they are bad because they have made mistakes and this is simply not true. I am your heavenly mother and I look into your little heart and I see such goodness. You can do great things for Jesus if you try to do your best. Will you do that for me? Try to be good and all will be well.

July 2, 2004
Mary, our Blessed Mother,
Speaks to Children

Dearest children, you must live for Jesus. When you awaken in the morning you should tell Jesus you love him and say, 'Jesus, I offer you my day.' Little children, if you do this, Jesus will take every part of your work and play, your eating and sleeping, and he will use it to bring other souls to Heaven. Isn't that easy? You see, my little ones, it is not hard to please Jesus. He is loving and happy and wants you to be loving and happy. If you do as I say, you will be happy, because it is in being good that we become happy. You must never worry if someone is not good. Just pray for them and we will help them. You may not see us helping them but you can believe that we will because I would never tell you something that was not true. Neither would Jesus. We speak only the truth. You should practice speaking only the truth, also. You may make some small mistakes at times and at times you may forget to pray. Simply tell Jesus you forgot and pray a small prayer. All will be well. If you practice these little things they will become good habits and you will become a beautiful little saint for Heaven. It is easier than you think, my precious ones. I am with you and I will help you with everything.

July 3, 2004
Mary, our Blessed Mother,
Speaks to Children

My dearest children, I am glad to see that you have listened so carefully to the words we have sent you from Heaven. Now you know how to be good and how to please Jesus. Jesus, because he is God, knows everything so he knows exactly what is best for you. At times you may pray and you may feel that your prayer was not answered. My dearest little child, Jesus made the world for you. Do not think he would not give you everything in that world. But sometimes, because Jesus knows everything, he knows you may be asking for something that would be bad for you. In this case, Jesus must say 'no.' You understand, don't you? Perhaps you are asking for a red car but you are too small to drive. Jesus will say 'no' to that prayer. I want you to know that Jesus is the smartest and most clever man who ever lived. He sees everything and knows everything, because he is God. His decisions are always the right decisions so you can trust him in everything. I want to tell you another way you can please Jesus. You can tell him this: 'Jesus, I trust in you. Jesus, I trust in you. Jesus, I trust in you.' If you say this three times, it is a most beautiful prayer and you will begin to trust him in everything, which will make you feel safe and happy. I love you dearly, my little child. I place my hands over you in a protective blessing. Try to be good and I will help you.

APPENDIX

The Five Spiritual Practices

As Apostles of the Returning King, we begin the spiritual practices in whatever way we can. For some, a good start will be simply praying the Allegiance Prayer each day. For others, assuming all five practices may feel quite natural.

1. Daily Allegiance Prayer and Vocation Prayer, plus a brief prayer for the Holy Father
2. Eucharistic Adoration, one hour per week
3. Prayer Group Participation, monthly, at which we pray the Luminous Mysteries of the Holy Rosary and read the Monthly Message
4. Monthly Confession
5. Further, we will follow the example of Jesus Christ as set out in the Holy Scripture, treating all others with His patience and kindness

Three Charisms of the Apostolate of the Returning King

- ✘ Compassionate Listening
- ✘ Learning and Teaching the Catechism
- ✘ Promoting Unity in the Church

The Allegiance Prayer

Dear God in Heaven, I pledge my allegiance to you. I give you my life, my work and my heart. In turn, give me the grace of obeying your every direction to the fullest possible extent. Amen.

The Vocation Prayer

Oh Mary, mother of Jesus and Queen of the Church, I ask you to bless me with fidelity to my vocation. Assist me in seeing that my service, however humble and hidden, is important to the universal Church. Strengthen me in times of trial and watch over my family and loved ones. Help me, beloved Mother, to remain faithful to Jesus Christ, your Son, the Returning King. Amen.

Promise to Apostles of the Returning King

May 12, 2005

Jesus

Your message to people remains constant. Welcome each person to the rescue mission. You may assure each apostle that just as they concern themselves with my interests, I will concern myself with theirs. They will be placed in my Sacred Heart and I will defend and protect them. I will also pursue complete conversion of each of their loved ones. You see, the people who serve in this rescue mission as my beloved apostles will know peace. The world cannot make this promise as only Heaven can bestow peace on a soul. This is truly Heaven's mission and I call every one of Heaven's children to assist me. You will be well rewarded, my dear ones.
